

I am opposed to any further deregulation of the broadcast ownership laws. The public does not benefit from deregulation. Smaller less powerful companies lose out to the larger corporations, diversity is lost and mediocrity prevails. I am a taxpayer and a citizen of this country. My taxes help to pay for the FCC. The media giants - Viacom, Clear Channel, Disney - have too much power as it stands now. The FCC is there to regulate these companies, not to help form monopolies. Deregulation is a disservice to the public interest.